PAINTING TREASURY NOTES. Why the United States Treasury Officials

Object-A Late Decisions The pastime of painting United States treasury notes has lately received a setback. A pointed hint has gone out from the treasury department that if persons of artistic descendents of the Toltects and Aztecs, taste want to test their skill in this line they must not exhibit their work in public. This is the meaning of a decision by Solicitor Mc-Cue, the full effect of which was not made plain in the brief abstract given out. The decision was based on a New York case, where a fac simile of a $5 note painted on wood was exhibited in a well known salcon. A secret service agent suggested that the painting was too suggestive of counterfeitng to be kept open to the public gaze and uld be removed. Chief Brooks took substantially the same view.

The owner of the picture and the artist to painted it made affidavits that no vioon of the law was intended. The solicitor of the treasury accepted this as a statement of the facts, but declared he could not supetion any encroachment upon the statute made for the protestion of United States securities. Sec. 5,430, among other things, ovides that "every person who prints, sotographs, or in any other manner makes Of course the begging in Europe is carried or executes or causes to be printed, photographed, made or executed, or ails in printng, photographing, making or executing know what poverty is in dear America. An Arizona Sunset. A ball of fire suspended

Low o'era molten era. Infinate glory bleuded-Lost in elernity. A sired crimson paling
With pencillings of gold;
A white cloud outward sailing.
Foam billows, fold on fold.

A quivring radient repture:
hed torches flaming high:
A thousand waves that capture
Pale rose tints from the sky.
A lesser glory blending
With bine, more faintly blue;
A rosy light assending
To pierce all distance through Commingling tints grow fainter; A dim fire bureing low— Ab, never skill of painter Can mix the coints so.
A mellowed beauty ling rs;

A curtai . pearly gray.
Is drawn by unseen forcers
Across the face of day. Gone the resplendent wonder: God's clory passed away. We stand the gray sky under, Bestdo a seu of gray. And sigh because life's attery, Like sunsac's feeting kine. Tells takes of tameiant glory. Lost rapture, vanished bliss.

A Safeguard. The fatal rapidity with which slight Colds and Coughs frequently developing the gravest malidles of the liftost and lungs, is a consideration which should impel every prudent person to keep at hand, as a household remedy, a bottle of Averlage of the consideration of the constant of the AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Nothing else gives such immediate ellef and works so sure a cure is all affections f this class. That emin of this class. That eminent paysician, Prof. F. Sweetzer, of the Maine Medical School, Brunswick, Me., says:-

"Medical exence has produced no other ano-dyne experience to good as ATEN'S CHERKY Perforas. It is invaluable for diseases of the thousand large." The same opinion is expressed by the well-known Dr. L. J. Addison, of Chicago, Ill., who says:-"I have move found, in thirty-five years of

"I have mover found, in their-dre years of continuous study and practice of medicine, any preparation of so great value as Atka's Chemat Factoral, for treatment of diseases of the phreat and lungs. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is more effective than anything else in redesing even the most erious broughtal and gultmonary effections." AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

Is not a new claimant for popular confidegree, but a medicine which is to-day saving the lives of the third generation who have come into being since it was first offered to the public.

There is not a household in which this invaluable remedy has once been introduced where its use has ever been shandoned, and there is not a person who has ever given it a proper trial for any throat or long disease suscep-tible of cure, who has not been made AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has, in numberless insuances, cured obstinate cases of chronic Bronchitis, Laryngitis, and even scute Pneumonia, and has enved many patients in the earlier stages of Pulmonary Consumption. If is a medicine that only requires to be taken in small doses, is pleasant to the taste, and is needed in every house where there are children, as there is nothing so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for treatment of Croup and Whooping Cough. These are all plain facts, which can be verified by anybody, and should be remembered by everybody.
